KANSAS GOVERNOR PICKED ON FIRST BALLOT BY REPUBLICAN DELEGATES AT THE CLEVELAND CONVENTION

Inform Delegates, Before Vote is Taken, That He Backs The Return to Gold, Favors Amendment to Deal With Wages and Hours—Insists On Civil Service

CLEVELAND, June 12—Alf M. Landon, Pennsylvania-born Governor of Kansas, was nominated for President by the Republican National Convention last night.

He was made the unanimous choice of the convention after the roll call of the States had produced 19 votes for Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho.

Eighteen of these ballots were cast by instructed delegates from Wisconsin.

One came from the West Virginia delegation.

After the Landon total of 984 out of 1003 delegates had been announced, the Wisconsin delegation moved that the nomination be made unanimous.

Down from the high vaulted roof of the convention hall came a deluge of balloons and colored paper as the Prairie State Governor was officially proclaimed the Republican candidate for President.

The band struck up the National Anthem. On the stage a huge American flag was unfurled. And in the centre of the platform there was undraped a large photograph of the nominee.

CLEVELAND, June 12—(IN)—Their candidate nominated, their platform adopted, the Republicans turned today to the selection of a vice-presidential nominee to round out their ticket and complete the front which they will present against the New Deal in the '36 campaign.

Just who the vice presidential nominee would be, this morning, uncertain.

Twelve hours ago it looked certainly to be Col. Frank Knox, the Chicago publisher, who was one of the leading candidates for first place, but who—like the rest—shelved their personal ambitions to make it unanimous for the Kansas governor.

The principal question mark seemed to be Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan. The forces that accomplished the Landon nomination originally wanted Vandenberg. But the Michigan senator came to Cleveland avowing he would not take second place, insisting that he could not be drafted for the job. Then, the Landon managers' fancy turned elsewhere.

They hit upon Col. Knox, who, they argued to themselves, after all, was one of the three principal opponents of Gov. Landon for the nomination.

The Colonel was recorded as willing. He made one of the warmest speeches last night for Governor Landon's nomination.

All that Senator Vandenberg had for quotation today was: "Nothing has happened to change my original statement." The original statement, made in Washington before coming to Cleveland, was that under no circumstances was he to be considered a candidate.

Today, however, was another day, and the Senator's intimates insisted his mind was not closed to the vice-presidential nomination, provided there was some evidence of unanimity on the part of the convention.

Inspired by the uncertainty of the situation, a dozen vice-presidential boomlets sprang up about the convention today. But for practical political reasons, the Landon forces appeared to want either Vandenberg or Knox. There were others who were arguing the selection of some Easterner, ex-Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, or Congressman Joe Martin of Massachusetts, an influential Republican member of the house, who would have been the Landon floor manager had there been any contest.

FETE SENIORS

The Mothers' Association of Bristol schools entertained the members of the graduating class of Bristol high school at a dance last evening in the high school auditorium. The auditorium was decorated with the class colors, silver and blue, and a local orchestra furnished music. Refreshments were served.

Veterans' Service Bonds To Be Delivered Earlier

It was announced shortly before noon today by Joseph P. Duffy, Bristol postmaster, that the adjusted service bonds for the veterans had arrived at the Bristol post office and that they would be delivered Monday morning, instead of Monday afternoon, as previously announced.

Mr. Duffy also requested the veterans to arrange their bonds in sequence so as to expedite the handling of them.

"Two facts to be impressed on the veteran is that he must receive the registered letter containing his service bonds personally, from the post office, if he fails to be at his place of mail delivery when letter carrier attempts delivery. The second fact is that certifications of requests for payment must be made personally. This office will always advance such information relative to the payment of the bonds or exchange to other savings bonds," stated the Bristol postmaster.

Flag To Be Presented To Cadets By The Elks' Lodge

Attorney J. Leslie Kilcoyne will address members of the Bristol Lodge of Elks at their annual flag day services on the lawn of their home, Radcliffe street, tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock. At the same time the lodge will present a handsome American flag to the American Legion Cadets of Robert W. Bracken Post, who will march from their headquarters in full uniform.

The committee in charge of affairs, John S. Williams, Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., John H. Brehm, J. Leslie Kilcoyne and Chauncey E. Stoneback, Jr., will serve the Cadets refreshments at the conclusion of the ceremonies.

TEMPLE GRADUATE

Misses Lillian S. Popkin and Anna Corn, Mill street, graduated from Temple University, Philadelphia, yesterday. The graduation exercises were held in convention hall, Philadelphia.

CUTS WRIST

Fermella Maffeo, Dorrance street, fell while playing yesterday, cutting her right wrist on a piece of glass. Three stitches were taken in the wound at Harriman Hospital.

NAME OFFICERS

A business meeting of the Junior Travel Club was held last evening in the club rooms. Election of officers was held and the new officers elected for the year are: Miss Anne Jeffries, president; Miss Marie Wurster, vice-president; Miss Thelma Wallace, corresponding secretary; Miss Isabel Nils, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Brooks, treasurer.

More Than 2500 Billboards

scattered along highways throughout Pennsylvania are to contain warnings urging motorists to drive safely.

Burgess Clifford L. Anderson and Chief of Police Linford J. Jones have signed up to do all within their efforts to make the streets of Bristol safe. But the co-operation of the motorists and the pedestrians must be given if the campaign is to be effective.

NEW HOPE MAN WINS AN AWARD AT PRINCETON

Charles F. Ramsey, Jr., is The Recipient of the France-Amerique Medal

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

NEW HOPE, June 12—Charles Frederic Ramsey, Jr., of this borough, is the winner of the France-Amerique medal, announced by Professor Dewitt Clinton Poole, director of the School of Public and International Affairs of Princeton University.

Among other awards made known by Professor Poole are: the Myron T. Herrick prize to Frank Browne Hennessy, '37, Haworth, N. J.; and the Gale F. Johnston Prize in public affairs to Yorke Allen, Jr., '36, New York City.

Established in commemoration of the services to aviation of the late Myron T. Herrick while ambassador to France, the Herrick award of $50 is awarded annually to the student who writes the best essay on an assigned topic. This year's topic was "The Political Consequences of the Extension of Commercial Aviation in the Pacific." Honorary founders of the award are: Dickson Q. Brown, '95; Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, Graham B. Grosvenor, Gerardus P. Herrick, '95; Parmley W. Herrick, Commodore Jerome Hunsaker and Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

The medal is offered by the Society France-Amerique for the best senior thesis dealing with French civilization or an aspect of French-American relations. Ramsey's thesis, on "The Influence of Rabelais," was selected from those submitted in the departments of modern languages, politics, economics, and history. Honorable mention was given to a thesis on "The Medieval Revival of France in the Nineteenth Century," by Robert Hobbs French, '36, of Worcester, Mass., captain of the varsity baseball team.

The Johnston Prize was established by Gale F. Johnston, '24, of St. Louis, for the senior who had shown greatest improvement in his work in the School of Public and International Affairs. It consists of books to the value of $50.

Nine Will Graduate At St. Mark's School Here

St. Mark's Parochial School will graduate nine boys and girls tomorrow afternoon, when exercises are held in the school hall at 2:30 o'clock.

The first portion of the program will be a concert by the entire school, with each grade contributing. A play "Beloved of Broadway" will be staged by the seventh and eighth grades.

William J. Begley will deliver the address of the day; and presentation of diplomas will be by the Rev. Father Joseph E. Murphy.

48 DIPLOMAS GIVEN FOR LANGHORNE-MIDDLETOWN

High School Commencement Exercises Include Unique Project Presentation

TEN HONOR GRADUATES

SOUTH LANGHORNE, June 12—Forty-eight diplomas were received by that number of graduates, last evening, when the first annual commencement of Langhorne-Middletown high school was conducted in the Casino.

A distinct departure from the usual commencement program or the usual form of commencement project proved a splendid innovation. The unusual project, which brought rounds of applause from the large audience was entitled "The Cultural and Social Development of Nations," said project being designed for the purpose of creating a better understanding among nations. The political history was minimized, and the social and cultural advancement were emphasized. Six of the most important foreign countries were considered, Poland, Japan, Sweden, France, Germany, Holland, with six of the graduates giving five minutes' talks relative to each. Then there followed each address, folk songs, dances and pantomimes. The folk dance of Poland, presented by children of the lower grades, was in colorful costume; the girls pleasing with the Japanese dance wore bright kimono and used their fans in rhythm with the dance; a group dressed in Swedish costume gave a pantomime; songs of France were sung in French by a

CONFESSES THEFT OF MONEY FROM EDGELY RESIDENT

Alleged Collector for Union Gospel Mission, Trenton, N. J., Behind Bars

PART OF MONEY FOUND

Prisoner Tells Police He Only Took Money Found On Him

An alleged collector for the Union Gospel Church Mission, Inc., 509 Perry street, Trenton, N. J., is in the Bucks County jail, Doylestown, where he is being held without bail charged with felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods. The man being held is John Purcell, alias John Pardale. He gives the address of 119 Perry street, Trenton, N. J.

Purcell, according to Chief of Police Linford J. Jones and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, confesses taking $464 and a pair of trousers belonging to Havard Himmelright, Edgely.

Purcell is said by the police to have been arrested three or four times previously in New jersey and has served time in Rahway and also in the New Jersey State Prison. It is stated that he collected for the mission on a 40 per cent basis. The name of Rev. J. Bolton appears on the stationery as superintendent of the mission. The three other men held along with Purcell were released following the confession of the Trenton man.

Purcell was given a hearing before Justice of Peace James Laughlin.

Wednesday afternoon between one and two o'clock Mr. Himmelright, who is employed as a P. R. R. conductor, was asleep in bed at his Edgely home. His trousers hung on a chair nearby and in them was a wallet containing $800. When Himmelright awoke he found things in his room disturbed and his wallet and trousers missing. Between six and seven o'clock, Wednesday evening, Himmelright notified the Bristol police of the robbery and Chief Jones and Officer Perry responded. The police stopped at a store in Edgely to ask where Himmelright lived and in stepping out of the police car, Chief Jones saw a man, apparently intoxicated, lying in the weeds nearby. He aroused the man and asked him where he lived. The man informed Chief Jones that he lived across the field "in that house." A youngster standing nearby quickly shouted "No he don't, chief, I live over there."

The man, who later proved to be Purcell, was loaded into the Bristol police car and searched. A roll of bills containing the $464 was found on his person. He was immediately placed behind the bars here.

Yesterday Chief Jones and Detective Russo made an investigation and then confronted Purcell with the facts. He confessed but says that the money found in his pocket was all of the money which he took from Himmelright's pants.

Purcell was identified yesterday as being the man who went from door to door in the Edgely section soliciting contributions for the Union Mission. He also inquired at the residence of Fred Hibbs "Who lives next door?" and when informed asked "Is his wife dead?"

FARLEY SLURS MID-WEST

By Representative Dewey Short of Missouri

The New Deal at heart is not overly solicitous concerning the welfare of American agriculture. You will recall the address of the principal New Deal campaign manager, Postmaster General James A. Farley, at Grand Rapids, Mich., in which he referred with eloquent disdain to "a typical Prairie State."

We people of the great agricultural producing region of America long have understood the contempt in which Tammany holds the great Middle West.

Many good people of the great Prairie States, I may add, appear to reciprocate heartily in their mistrust of the political system of Tammany Hall.

Yet, it is illuminating to find the Postmaster General and the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee and the Chairman of the Democratic State Committee for New York publicly proclaim his sincere contempt for "a typical Prairie State."

The Prairie States will be the last in the Union to be Tammanized by the Farley spoils system.

The Prairie States will be the last to bow down to the

Borah to Remain "Lone Wolf"

Washington, June 12—Senator William Edgar Borah today indicated that he intended to remain the "lone wolf" in Republican politics in the forthcoming campaign. Arriving here early today from Cleveland, the Senator indicated that he was disgruntled with certain features of the message which Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas sent the convention following his nomination for the presidency.

Glancing over a newspaper copy of Governor Landon's message handed him by the International News Service reporter, he read aloud the Governor's desirability of returning to the gold standard. When he had finished reading that section of the telegram, he said the second requisite to such a step must not be made effective until it can be done without involving foreign affairs.

"What the ——— does he mean by that? It is not all clear." Asked as to what he thought of the Governor's statement, with a disgruntled gesture he thrust the newspaper back into the hands of the newspaperman.

EXONERATE DRIVER OF BLAME FOR ACCIDENT

Coroner's Jury Says Accident, In Which Croydon Girl Was Killed, Was Unavoidable

SMITH IS DISCHARGED

The accident which occurred just south of Bristol early on the morning of May 17, in which Frances Johnson, 16, Sycamore avenue, Croydon, was killed, was unavoidable, and the driver of the car, Frank Smith, 22, Langhorne, was exonerated of all blame. This was the verdict of the coroner's jury which yesterday afternoon held an inquest into the death of Miss Johnson. Smith was taken before Justice of the Peace James Guy by Corporal R. D. Evans of the Highway Patrol and released from bail.

The inquest was held in the Municipal Building by Bucks County Coroner H. Clayton Moyer, assisted by Deputy Coroner Dr. James P. Lawler. The jury was composed of John Y. Turner, Clarence G. Young, William H. H. Fine, Frank Lunderbough, Evan Vandegrift and John Fulmer.

The first witness was Corporal Evans, who told of being advised of the accident and coming to the Harriman Hospital where he saw Smith, the driver of the car, and the body of Miss Johnson. Evans told the jury that the car had gone off the left hand side of the highway, through a fence, knocked down four concrete posts and continued up over the railroad ballast until the front wheels were in the center of the tracks. He stated that the car had bumped over the ties.

Dr. Lawler told of viewing the body of Miss Johnson and of having interviewed Smith, who he said was laboring under excitement and appeared somewhat dazed.

Ezra Johnson, father of the girl, described how the pair had left the Johnson home to attend a family social gathering in Bristol. At 11:35 the pair had asked both he and his wife to accompany them to the affair, but they did not go because Mrs. Johnson was not feeling well and Mr. Johnson was tired from loss of sleep on the two nights previous.

Smith took the stand in his own behalf and told the jury that he believed the steering knuckle or rod had broken. "I could not steer the car," he testified. "The car left the road and went over through the fence." He said that he believed the left front wheel of the car was on the railroad track. He told the jury he was driving between 35 and 40 miles per hour.

Smith described how he had bought the car at two o'clock on the afternoon of the day previous.

He did not know exactly what happened to Miss Johnson, whether she was thrown from the car or the door had sprung open, or just how she came to her death. He stated, and Mr. Johnson also, that there was no beer or intoxicating liquor served at the party, which was a family anniversary. Smith did tell the jury that he had four small glasses of beer at seven o'clock on the evening of May 17th.

I. LOUIS RUBIN IS SPEAKER AT SCHOOL FLAG DAY PROGRAM

Tells of the Evolution of The National Banner; Gives Its History

REPRESENTS THE LEGION

Two Pupils Also On Program; Patriotic Numbers Are Given

Flag Day, which occurs June 14th, was celebrated by the eighth grades in Bristol high school building this morning, when at an assembly program at 10 o'clock, I. Louis Rubin, representing the Robert W. Bracken Post, American Legion, gave information regarding the evolution of the national banner.

Mr. Rubin was introduced by Miss Effie Watson, principal of the grade school classes; and the address followed a program of patriotic songs led by Eugene Barrett, salute to the flag, and numbers by the pupils. "Our National Banner" was the title of a reading by Donald Nichols; and "The Origin of Our National Anthem" was given by Sarah Ellis.

The serious purpose in back of the morning's exercises was brought to the minds of the boys and girls. "I am here in behalf of the American Legion, which desires to bring home to the boys and girls and adults of the country the force and vitality and meaning of the American flag," said Mr. Rubin.

The difficulties under which the flag was conceived were told of. "The flag which we love is more than pieces of colored material." The history of the flag was given, in order to familiarize the students with the background of the banner. "I want you to know how it came to be the glorious banner that it is," added Mr. Rubin.

Through the address the students learned more of the condition of this country in 1775 before the start of the Revolution, "when there was no middle West or far West, and when the colonies were just groups of isolated people. As early as 1775 Benjamin Franklin was made chairman of a committee named to design a flag. That was even before there was any break between Britain and the colonies."

In telling of the evolution of the flag the speaker mentioned that at first it was made up of 13 alternating red and white stripes, with crosses of St. George and St. Andrew on a blue background. Following the Boston tea party and the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, and the real start of the Revolution, the flag again changed. "In 1777 the Continental Congress passed an act designating that the flag would be made up of 13 alternating stripes of red and white, with field of blue studded with 13 stars forming a circle," continued the local barrister. "Betsey Ross is given credit for making the first flag. . . . It took about six months after the Congressional act was passed, for the news to reach the more distant colonies. When the news reached Ft. Stanwick, N. Y., which was being besieged the soldiers hurriedly made a banner, using the soldiers' shirts for the white stripes and stars, the coat of a captain for the blue field, and bits of scarlet cloth were utilized for the red stripes. And that fort was held by the American men. They had something to fight under and a symbol for what they were fighting for."

As each state was added, it was planned to add a stripe and star. Mr. Rubin informed, but from 1795 until 1818 none were added. The War of 1812 was fought under a flag having 15 stripes and 15 stars," he mentioned. "Then in 1818 Congress decided how the flag would be constituted, 13 stripes for the original states, with a star being added as each state was admitted."

"And so on the 14th of each June we observe the birthday of our flag. We don't want you to sing the 'Star-Spangled Banner' and salute the flag just because you have to. We want you to know why you do so. . . . The flag represents the Spirit of America—and the Spirit of America is Liberty."

Joseph Schreiber, Americanism officer of the Bracken Post, accompanied Mr. Rubin to the high school.

THE PURSUIT OF LUCK

Hope is the bright star of inspiration that keeps us all plugging along through life. But what do we rest our hopes on? Is it on the things we hope to do, the labors of our own hands or brains? Or are we dreaming about some streak of luck?

People are fascinated by tales of lucky chances. They read stories about people on whom fortune has smiled without effort on their part. They are confronted by the thought that perhaps the fickle jade will also turn her favors to them. They hear about someone who has made a lucky haul in gambling or lotteries, and think that if they will take those chances, they too may be favored, and ride on to happiness and abundance.

When people form the habit of dreaming about lucky chances, they lose interest in their own work and their attention is diverted for the means by which people can make substantial progress by their own efforts.

The loss of the money dropped in gambling schemes, is only a part of the loss that takes place. If people have their minds fixed on the hope of luck, they are not cultivating the sentiment of ambition. It is ambition that lifts people up to better things, and enables them to realize their dreams.

Fortune is the reward of those who see farther than others, who make correct estimates of the things that are going to happen, who have more skill in organizing business, and who are so faithful and efficient and useful that they are rewarded by promotion. It is the reward of skill and intelligence, while the favors of luck are few, and most people who pursue that treacherous siren find nothing but emptiness.

DEBT-FREE NEBRASKA

Citizens of Nebraska evidently possess a unique political insight. They know how to make their lawmakers call a spade a spade.

The state has a constitution that limits the state debt to $100,000. Nothing less than a war justifies Nebraska in borrowing money in excess of that amount.

About five years ago some members of the legislature who thought it time to make Nebraska like all other states, all balled up with debts, thought up a way to do it. They proposed issuing $25,000,000 in "negotiable instruments." They knew the word "bonds" wouldn't be popular, and anyway, it would be unconstitutional to bond the state.

But negotiable instruments on the security of gasoline taxes earmarked for the purpose might get by.

They have some good civic associations in Nebraska and some good newspapers, and the vigilant taxpayers, using these, got busy. They pointed out that "negotiable instruments" might not be bonds, but they would have to be met when due and, however the act was worded, it obligated the state to make good at the due date. And they said that a moral obligation in the State was not different from any other debt and was unconstitutional. The bill was defeated and Nebraska stayed out of debt.

Many a bad principle of government has been concealed under a tricky name in lawmaking.

Not a single authority quoted in print tells you the right wine to use with hot dogs.

COTTONS ARE THE THING FOR THESE WARM SPRING DAYS

By RHANDENA A. ARMSTRONG
Home Economics Representative

Warm days make us hurry to bring out our cool cotton dresses. No material is quite so perfect for hot weather wear. It may be sheer and dainty or of the heavier tailored weaves, but it is cool, washable, and always fresh.
Cotton frocks are smart for all the day's activities from morning errands, through lunch and afternoon activities, to the evening parties. All the familiar cotton fabrics are here, many of them in a new guise—with new weaves and finishes we scarcely recognize them. Two finishes, pre-shrinking and treatment for crease resisting, add to the serviceability and are worth considering.

Try your cotton or linen jacket over your silk dress, or wear your silk blouse with your linen suit. Cotton or linen accessories are smart. These include bags, shoes, hats, scarfs, and jackets.

Make a variety of bright cotton slip covers for your envelope purse and have a different purse for each costume. Patterns may be had for making hats and gloves.

All the cool, airy cottons such as organdy, eyelet batiste, lace, and dotted swiss are associated with graduation exercises. They will look more than usually attractive this year for their crispness lends itself to the full skirts, ruffles, and frills that characterize the "style for summer 1936."

The shirtwaist frock is most popular, but the girl who looks best in soft lines may trim her's with frills or ruffles down the front from neck to hem and frills around her collar and sleeves. Old-fashioned rick rack edging the collars, sleeves, and hemline is different and gives an inexpensive tailored finish.

A lovely organdy dress may be made with no other trim than the exquisite workmanship of its tiny hems and tucks. Some of these plain frocks are made coat style—one of the outstanding models this Spring. The skirt is left open from waist to hem and falls back showing the slip beneath as the wearer moves. White slips are a necessary foundation and taffeta is a favorite. If this is made of a synthetic fabric, it is easily washed, and does not turn yellow.

Bearing in mind the fact that these dresses must be adopted to festivities of the summer, the designers have made many of them with waist or hip length jackets. Without the jacket, the dress is right for evening parties.

"BLIND TO LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXV

In the morning Margot wouldn't get up.

"Work on a day like this! Not me! I'm celebrating. Besides, I'm going to quit on the 1st. Freddie wants me to marry him right away, and why shouldn't I? I've got a saved up that I can send the family, and anyhow if I don't get another thing for them I've done too much already."

"Nobody put me through school. I don't know why I should work myself to death for the rest of 'em. . . . Oh, it'll come out somehow. Do you mind phoning my office as you go out, Mary? Tell them I don't feel like working today. Say I've got neuralgia; that's better than a cold, don't you think? Oh, use your own judgment—make it sound GOOD!"

That's the way it goes. You think you don't care what happens in the office, but you do. Mary found herself caring. She hadn't set foot in the elevator before she'd started worrying about Lalla, and the scandal. By 9:15 she was all upset because Bennet telephoned that he'd be late; he was meeting Samson's wife, and would probably drive her out to the hospital, too.

And then he walked in, before she was ready for him.

He was greatly agitated—you could see that at a glance.

He walked right past her desk to his own office, called to her over his shoulder, "Edwin Samson is dead. He died five minutes before we got there."

Edwin Samson . . . dead.

It was just too much. Without knowing why, she put her head down on the desk and cried. And once started, she couldn't stop.

After a long while she realized that Bennet was trying to speak to her, to tell her something about Samson's death.

She lifted her tear-streaked face. "Oh, you don't understand. I'm sorry he's dead. I wish it were I, instead I But I'm not crying about him! I'm selfishly weeping about something else. I'd been worrying, and when you said that, I don't know why—but it just seemed that I couldn't bear it—everything just seemed to break and I—, I'm sorry—I can't help it."

He sat down beside her.

"Why don't you tell me about it? We ought to be pretty good friends, after all we've been through together. Tell me, is that why you've been so cool since I came back? Because you had other things on your mind? Worries?"

"I haven't meant to be—cool. But I—I have been worried."

"And you haven't let me help?"

He smiled and squeezed her hand reassuringly. His hand was hard and comfortably warm.

"Poor little Mary Shannon. . . . Little Red Riding Hood among the wolves!"

That last wasn't necessary. If she only knew it, she'd taken care of herself very nicely, as any of the wolves could testify. But it did no good to know that he thought he'd been cool. She had thought she had been the cool one.

She sang a little as she did her thing.

Only when the 5 o'clock whistles blew did he stop. "That's all, thank you."

"I don't mind staying! I haven't anything to do tonight!"

"Thank you," he answered almost curtly, "I have an engagement!"

And THAT, said Mary to herself, is the last time I offer to work overtime for ANYBODY, especially YOU, Mr. All Business Snooty Bennet!

It was Mary's turn now! Her turn to dress, fuss over the dressing table, then run downstairs and off to a show or one of the hotels to dance, while Margot stayed alone in their room.

When Milt found that she liked to dance he took her on a round of the hotels. Not just gingerale and a sandwich, either. Dinner! A real dinner dance—first the Mark Hopkins, and then the St. Francis and then the Palace.

It seemed awfully wasteful to be paying for board at Mrs. Henry's and then never being there to dinner. She imagined what Ma would say about that. Milt was just wonderful, really. And, though he didn't dance very well, he enjoyed ordering an exciting dinner and watching the other dancers. He was so proud of her it was almost pathetic.

It was only right that she should look nice for him. She took infinite pains with her hair, her nails, her skin. Late hours and work and rushing hadn't improved her appearance. She looked rather "washed out" in spite of all her trouble.

Milt made her take the ring, finally. Not to wear—for she was determined not to start wearing it until she was ready to tell everyone and plan for an immediate marriage. And she wasn't ready to tell anyone yet. Not even Ma. In fact, Ma least of all. . . . Ma always had so much to say, and she wasn't in any mood for an argument or even a discussion. Right now she just wanted to have a good time—keep going every minute—and not talk about anything serious.

But when she felt low, as she did tired often because she was so tired all the time, she took the ring out of her purse and wore it for a little while.

She always wore it when she went to lunch, unless she was with Ethelyn. And didn't the other girls who sat near her notice it? It was just beautiful, really. So large, and so beautifully set. Twenty-one little diamonds besides the large one!

Whenever Margot talked too much about her Freddie or Ethelyn and one of her nasty streaks or Bennet was up-stage, she thought about it, safely tucked away in white velvet in its little box in her bag. It made her feel good.

She was working awfully hard. There was so much to do. Bennet was out of the office a lot on account of Mr. Samson's funeral and having to see his mother and his widow and check with the bank about a note Samson had signed.

Queer that there was never any word from Lalla.

Lalla just disappeared, disappeared as suddenly as she had come terize the "style for summer 1936."

The shirtwaist frock is most popular, but the girl who looks best in soft lines may trim her's with frills or ruffles down the front from neck to hem and frills around her collar and sleeves. Old-fashioned rick rack edging the collars, sleeves, and hemline is different and gives an inexpensive tailored finish.

A lovely organdy dress may be made with no other trim than the exquisite workmanship of its tiny hems and tucks. Some of these plain frocks are made coat style—one of the outstanding models this Spring. The skirt is left open from waist to hem and falls back showing the slip beneath as the wearer moves. White slips are a necessary foundation and taffeta is a favorite. If this is made of a synthetic fabric, it is easily washed, and does not turn yellow.

Bearing in mind the fact that these dresses must be adopted to festivities of the summer, the designers have made many of them with waist or hip length jackets. Without the jacket, the dress is right for evening parties.

White is always the popular "color."

CHOOSING THE COLOR SCHEME

Color May Make or Mar Your Home If Used Intelligently

Dark colors make a room appear small.

White and Pastel colors enlarge a room.

A high, narrow room may be made to appear lower by painting the ceiling a dark color and the lower part in a light color.

A room that has a low ceiling, yet plenty of width, should be painted in one of the neutral shades and doors and windows trimmed with a darker color.

Yellow gives a room warmth and is best used on the north side of the house.

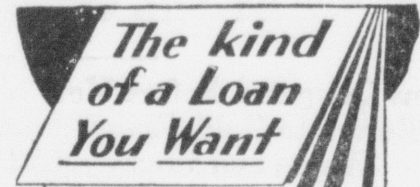

Green leaves the impression of coolness and will greatly aid a room to the south.

The color scheme of a bedroom should be restful and chosen to satisfy the individual.

Dining rooms should be serene, sparkling with a fresh, glowing color. Living rooms should give an air of formality but without stiffness.

Kitchens and breakfast rooms should exude cheer and friendliness.

The key to many a happy home lies in the selection of the colors and tones most suitable for the location and surroundings.

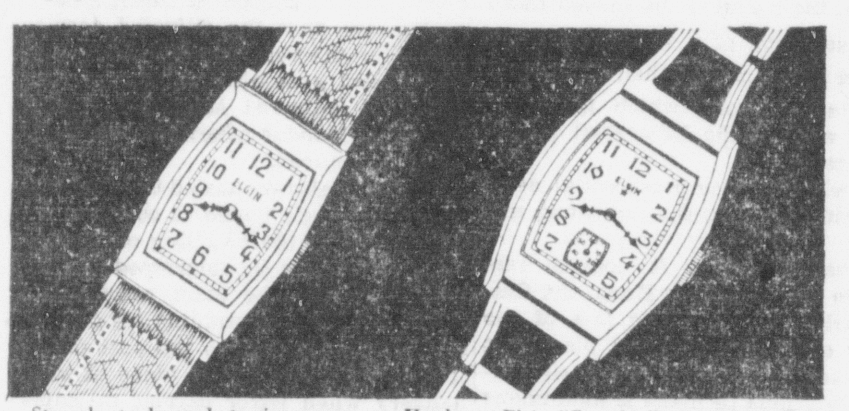

So complete is our service you can choose the plan that suits you best. Amounts up to $300. No security or endorsers required for salaried employees.

Roosevelt system of government by Executive Order. The Prairie States still are fighting for constitutional government!

The Prairie States will be the last to ratify the New Deal policy of reckless squandering of the people's money and the nation's substance!

The Prairie States will be the last in this Union to accept the principle of the boondoggle as the foundation stone of American prosperity!

The Prairie States support an honest and industrious people and no public slurs from Tammany spoilsmen will change the honorable and forthright convictions of that section.

In a little more than three years, the New Dealers have increased our national debt by more than $10,000,000,000, and in spite of this excessive expenditure, we still have about 12,000,000 unemployed and 20,000,000 of our people on relief.

At the end of the next fiscal year of the Roosevelt Administration (1937) our national debt will be in the neighborhood of $36,500,000,000.

This is greater than the value of all the farm lands and farm buildings and farm machinery and farm improvements in the United States today!

TOMLINSON'S SACRIFICE GIVES JEFFERSON VICTORY

Bristol Twilight League

Schedule for Tonight
BATH ROAD at EDGELY
HIBERNIANS and CASEYS
(Leedom's Field)

A sacrifice by Ray Tomlinson gave the Jefferson A. C. a close victory over the Odd Fellows last night on Landreth's field. Final score stood 3-2. Tomlinson's bunt came with two out and Frankovic resting on third base.

Going into the last half of the sixth and darkness coming over the field very rapidly, Frankovic opened with a hit to center. Bruce followed and planted a double in right, Frankovic stopping at third. Tullio struck out. On a signal from Tomlinson, the base-runner dashed for the plate as the batsman bunted the ball to Pitcher Dean. Dean threw out the runner, not having a chance to get Frankovic.

Both clubs had five hits to their credit. Dean did the hurling for the Odds while Ralphie Narcisi was the winning twirler.

BLACK TO PITCH AT HULMEVILLE TOMORROW

Having found himself in 1935 form, Manager Howard Black, Hulmeville A. A. twirler, will toss them up against the Dolington Cornhuskers tomorrow afternoon on the Hulmeville diamond. Black trimmed the Lambertville Top Rock Club in his last start and has his own cause by smacking out three home runs.

Black is determined to beat the Cornhuskers who were runners-up to the Hulmeville club last season. Black beat Dolington five times last season and is out to add to his list again. Manager McGary of the Huskers may retaliate by sending either Don Galick or Chappie Matthews against the Hulmevillites.

A double victory for the Blackmen over the week-end will do much in preventing the 1935 champions from finishing in the cellar where they are now resting with three wins and nine defeats. In Sunday's game against the Morrisville Hoopers, it is most likely that either Harry Hartscough or Wils Holland will do the firing.

Bordentown, the pace-setters, face Morrisville tomorrow and come to Hulmeville, Sunday, to face that wonderful hurler, Harry Holslaw, of the Newtown Bruins.

LEGION JUNIORS ARE OUT FOR THEIR 3RD VICTORY

Bob Hems, Legion Juniors will go after their third victory in the American Legion Baseball League on Saturday when they tackle Langhorne at three o'clock on Leedom's field.

The locals are on edge after handing Perkasia their first defeat Wednesday night. Manager Hems, who is anxious to win the championship this year, feels that he has a combination of young hustlers who can do just that with the breaks in their favor.

TO LEAP 12,000 FEET

"Buddy" Batzel, who during the past seven years has made over 650 parachute jumps, will leap from a height of 12,000 feet, or over two miles, at the Boulevard Airport (formerly William Penn field), Sunday, at seven p. m. This is said to be the highest parachute jump ever made in this section of the country. Batzel will drop 10,000 feet before opening his chute, leaping from an open cockpit plane. The veteran jumper has just returned from a tour of the South with Clarence Chamberlain, the famed aviator. He carries two parachutes, and for this high leap it requires a half hour for the plane to gain sufficient altitude. Only 90 seconds are needed, however, for the downward fall. Batzel will hold, when he leaps, a 24-pound sack of flour, with a small opening in the bag. The flour, trailing from the bag, will form a "smoke" trail, so that spectators can follow the course of the falling Batzel, it being impossible for them to see the tiny human speck until he gets much near to the earth.

That's a Nice Smile, Maxie—Can You Keep It?

SIX RUNS SCORED IN 3RD GIVES "SAINTS" GAME

Six runs in the third gave the St. Ann's A. A. nine a one-run margin over the American Legion team, 7-6, on Leedom's field. By virtue of its victory, the Saints retained its hold on third place in the loop standing.

Johnny Dick started for the Legion but during the uprising was removed and replaced by VanLenten who finished. Mike DeRisi tossed them for the St. Ann's team during the first four innings and in the final frame, Whyno took up the hill chores.

Y. M. H. A., OF PHILA., TO PLAY LANDRETH'S

Young Men's Hebrew Association, of Philadelphia, will oppose Landreth's Seeds in a twilight game this evening at Landreth Park.

This association, which has fostered athletics for a number of years in Philadelphia, boasts a baseball aggregation which is well recommended by those who know.

Last Saturday they defeated Woodstown, N. J., 6-1.

HULMEVILLE

Lightning struck the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman, Pennsylvania avenue, last evening. No serious damage was done.

The Sunday School class of Neshaminy M. E. Church, taught by Miss Florence Everett indulged in a party at the Everett home, Middletown Township, Wednesday evening. The attendees included: the Misses Alberta MacMath, Dora Waldron, Irma Miller, Kathryn Haik, Letty and Ellen Everett; Messrs. Raymond Elbertson, Edgington; Charles Riggs, Bath Road; Clifford VanArtsdalen, Newtown; Edward Hewitt, South Langhorne; Franklin Everett. In the game of "radio" prizes were received by Miss Haik and Mr. VanArtsdalen. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of games.

The students of Hulmeville-Middletown public school, taught by principal Lynn Schatzer, will make a trip to the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, on Monday. Mr. Schatzer, and the Misses Margaret Perry and Ann MacCorkle will return as instructors next year. The place of Miss Elizabeth Cupitt will be filled by Miss E. Ellis, Newtown Township.

BASEBALL NOTES

Wednesday evening, Buck La's Hawaiians will oppose Landreth Seeds at Landreth Baseball Park. The Hawaiians made their first appearance in Philadelphia this week.

Sunday, June 21, Al. Lang's Penn. A. C., one of the strongest semi-professional teams in Philadelphia, will play at Landreth's. The Pennacs have won 19 games out of 22 starts this season.

Sid Pursell, the Seeds' catcher, has hit safely in every game this season, 13.

Victor Rockhill is about on crutches with an injured knee. "Vic" received the injury several years ago while playing basketball at Bristol High, not baseball, and every now and then the trouble crops up again. In baseball this injury is called "tuck-knee" and many good ball players are often on the side lines with the same ailment.

Calvert, the young man who played such a clever fielding game at first base for the West Phillies against Landreth's, played that position for Ursinus College, the past season, which closed Saturday.

'36 CLASS PLAYED PART IN SCHOOL ATHLETICS

By Jack Orr
Bristol high school's 1936 class participated in four of the most successful athletic seasons the local institution has ever enjoyed. In the four years the Cardinal and Gray competitive organizations have captured eight championships, tied two, and found up with the winning percentage of .675.

First we shall review the 1932-33 season when the Class of '36 first entered high school. This year on the gridiron we find that three of the Bunnies' football games were cancelled because of the infantile paralysis throughout the Philadelphia district. The games with Abington, Jenkintown and Newtown were called off. The Cardinal and Gray won four and dropped three this year.

Fallington, Springfield and Doylestown defeated the Bunnies, while the locals downed Langhorne, Pemberton, Lansdale and Morrisville.

In the Winter of 1933 Bristol was represented on the basketball court by a team which was probably the best quintet ever to represent the Cardinal and Gray colors. Johnnie Cole, Joe Roe, Dick Brown, Ralph Cahall and Pete Borne were the starters and they easily swept the Lower Bucks County League title without dropping a ball game. This quint lost in the P. I. A. A. playoffs when they lost a heart-breaking 25-24 game to Pennsburg.

In the Spring of this year the localities won both Class A and C in the Bucks County Interscholastic Meet, and the baseball line, behind the brilliant twirling of Pete Pierce, walked off with the Lower Bucks County baseball laurels.

During the year 1933-34 the Bunnies had their poorest year in athletics. In football the Bristol eleven won five, lost two, and tied no less than four opponents.

Upper Moreland, Hahorne, Langhorne, Fallington and Pemberton fell before the onslaught of the gridirers, while they lost to Doylestown and their Alumni. The no-decision contests occurred with LaSalle, Burlington, Bordentown and Morrisville.

Turning to the indoor sport we find the Strangers losing the championship of the circuit to Morrisville High. The Bulldogs, aided by the sterling playing of John Kleinfelder and John Mattis, captured the gonfalon with ease. The Bunnies won seven and lost nine on the court.

Bristol's gym team really began organizing this year and this club gave several exhibitions.

In the Spring competition Bristol again captured Class A and C in the B. C. I. M., but forfeited the latter class owing to an illegal jump. It was this year that Russ Malmesbury, Morrisville speedster, came from behind to nip Dave Morse, Bristol anchor man, at the tape, to win the annual mile relay. This was the finest exhibition of foot racing ever seen on the local track, in this scribe's opinion.

Morrisville also captured the baseball championship but forfeited because of an ineligible player, as did Bristol, and the pennant went to the third place Bensalem nine. The Bunnies won eight and lost seven on the diamond.

Turning to the year 1934, the Cardinal and Gray clad warriors had one of their most successful seasons on the gridiron. No less than seven schools fell before the mighty Bunny, and Doylestown was the only club to defeat the localities. Bristol defeated LaSalle, Upper Moreland, Bordentown, Hatboro, Langhorne, Pemberton and Morrisville. Burlington again proved to be a jinx and held the locals to a tie, as did the Alumni.

In basketball this year the court team was the poorest ever seen on the local floor. This aggregation won but six games of their sixteen and, needless to say, Morrisville again romped off with the championship.

Again Bristol's gym team was organized but the club gave nothing but exhibitions.

Outdoors the Bunnies did not have a ball team, owing to financial conditions; however, they again swept Class A and C for the fourth consecutive year in the B. C. I. M.

The years 1935-36 were probably the most successful years ever seen in the local scholastic world.

In what was probably the toughest football schedule a Cardinal and Gray team ever faced, the Bunnies came out on top eight times while losing two and tying one. Fallington, Doylestown, Bryn Athyn, Langhorne, Burlington, Quakertown and Morrisville all fell before the Bunny, while Conshohocken and Cheltenham, two of the better schools in the Suburban Conference, defeated the localities. Ridley Township was the only tie.

For their fine season on the gridiron the Bunnies were awarded a football banquet at which time they were accorded the Lower Bucks County football trophy for winning the League Conference.

The jayvee football squad in four years have won nine games, lost two, and tied one. The J. V. lads have defeated Lower Merion (twice), George School, Glen Nor, Bryn Athyn, Jenkintown, Trenton, Cathedral, and Morrisville. They dropped games to Cheltenham and Jenkintown. Cheltenham and the "Hares" battled to a scoreless tie last year to account for the deadlock.

On the court Bristol won nine out of ten league games, halting Morrisville's winning streak of nineteen consecutive league games over a three year stretch, but lost to the Blue and Gold in the playoff. Morrisville, incidentally, went on to capture the Bucks County title when they won the tournament staged at Bristol.

The Bunnies won thirteen and dropped three in their scheduled court games.

Bristol's gym team captured District 1 title in the P. I. A. A. competition and were awarded a handsome trophy for their efforts.

On the diamond the Bunnies came through with nine victories and two defeats, but lost the title to Newtown High when the latter defeated Bristol in the playoff.

The Bunnies also lost their first Class A championship in four years when they dropped the major title to Sellersville-Perkasie at the annual B. C. I. M. The Class C speedsters from Bristol won, however, for the fifth year in a row.

With this we end our review of sports competition for the past four years at Bristol High School. The Class of '36 may well be proud of the records they have established or helped establish in the four years.

— RECIPES —

Dear Friends in Bristol:

Today there is no excuse for a woman saying "I cannot bake a fine grained, moist cake." Follow the rules for baking a cake just as you follow the road signs when taking a trip. The rules for better cakes are:

Preheat the oven to correct temperature. This takes from eight to ten minutes according to the stove.

Read recipe carefully, then check it according to formula for cakes, namely, sugar should not exceed one-half the amount of flour, shortening should equal half the volume of sugar; liquid ingredients including eggs and milk should equal half the volume of flour. Use level, accurate measures.

Assemble all ingredients and utensils before starting to mix the cake. Blend the sugar and shortening first. A well creamed mixture means a fine grained cake.

Sift flour before measuring. Measure and sift again with the dry ingredients. The dry ingredients are salt, baking powder and spices if used.

Add alternately the liquid and dry ingredients. Mix after each addition being careful not to over beat. Flavoring may be added to liquid.

Fold in egg whites with a flat egg beater, folding from the bottom to the top. As soon as the egg white has disappeared, stop mixing. Too much mixing will break down the air bubbles and the leavening of the egg white is lost.

Plain layer cakes are baked at a temperature of 375 degrees F. Chocolate and spice layers are baked at 350 degrees F. Intense heat has a tendency to make these layers brittle and bitter. Loaf cakes are baked at a temperature of 325 degrees F. Loaf cakes must be baked slowly or they will burst through in the center.

Cakes made with shortening should be removed from the pan as soon as they are taken from the oven. Place on a cake rack to prevent sweating. Sponge and angel food cakes should cool in the pan. Turn the pan down on a cake cooler. When thoroughly cold, gently ease out of the pan.

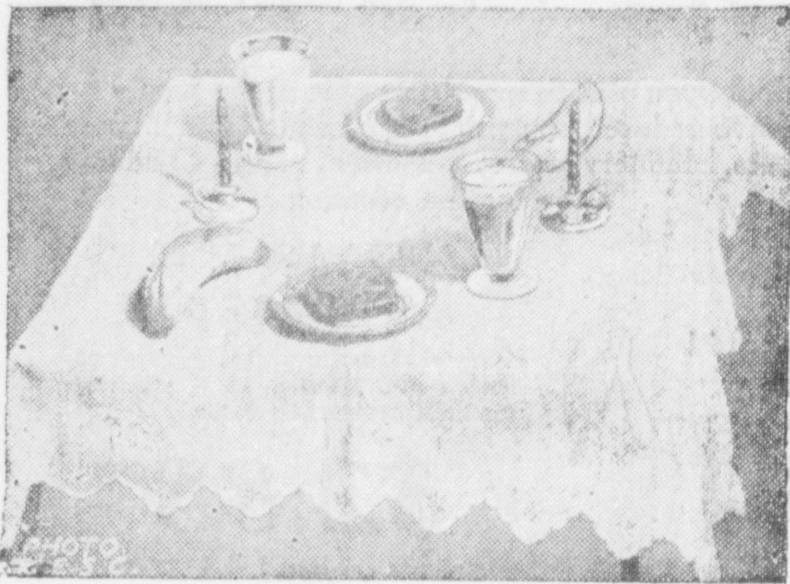

Cakes are done when they shrink slightly from the sides of the pan. When they spring back when gently pressed in the center. When a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

Balanced Recipe for Plain Cake

One-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, two eggs, two cups cake flour, two level teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup milk or water, one teaspoon vanilla. Blend the sugar and shortening. Add unbeaten eggs and beat again. Sift the flour once, then sift again with the salt, baking powder. Add vanilla to milk. Add alternately the dry ingredients and milk to the shortening mixture. Do not beat after adding flour. Too much beating of a cake will toughen a cake and make large air holes.

THE ONLY SMALL THING ABOUT A BUICK

LOOK high and look low throughout this smart and spirited Buick SPECIAL, and you'll find only one thing about it that's anything but big.

It's big in its inches, length and breadth—big in the ample, stretch-out space it supplies to driver and passengers alike.

It's big in its power—it hasn't found a hill it couldn't easily master, or a driver it couldn't thrill by the fervor of its quick response, the smoothness of its stride.

It's big in the measure of its quality, seen and unseen—every nut and bolt and strut and part is eloquent testimony to Buick's insistence that the best alone will do.

It's big in the pleasure it can bring you—pleasure that comes from handling a sparkling and superior performer—pleasure that's yours from owning a car so obviously better than mere transportation requires.

It's big in the satisfactions it yields—from the smartness of its valid streamline style, from the surety of its comfort, and your knowledge that the family couldn't be safer in a car.

It's big in every way, until you reach for the tag that names the price—then you find that it's only a short step up from the lowest-priced field to the Buick of your dreams. $765* and up, list at Flint, the price tag on the Buick SPECIAL, Series 40, reads, and the terms are within anyone's reach.

You'll be happier in a Buick. You'll get more back for your money. Come see it—drive it—and prove the only small thing about it is its price.
